

Local Visitor Attractions

We are aware some overseas visitors may be staying longer than the championships taking the opportunity to explore the UK and making their own travel plans. We thought it might be useful to highlight some of our local attractions a short driving distance from the club which visitor families may consider whilst racing is taking place.

We highlight below some of our favourite spots:

Pubs and Eating places:

There are many Pubs on Hayling Island or nearby where you can eat at a reasonable cost, we have identified a few that have in our minds special views or are of particular interest

The Inn On The Beach, Hayling island https: www.innonthebeach.co.uk

A short 20 minute safe cycle ride along the promenade and gravel track. A converted life boat station located right on the beach overlooking the Solent and Isle of Wight with views of Portsmouth city. The winner bank dries out extensively at low water springs revealing the 1865 wreck of the 100ft 85 ton schooner the "Ocean". Take care not to get trapped by the returning tide.

The Pub has typical pub grub and popular with locals to watch the sun setting over the Solent. A must do visit spot.

Ferry Boat Inn, Hayling Island; <https://ferryboatcornwall.co.uk/>

An Inn has been associated with or near this site since the 18th century and located on the furthest west peninsular of the island overlooking the now tranquil Langston Harbour. In 1776 the Hulks Act saw rotting man of war hulls both in Portsmouth and Langston Harbours filled with convicts. In 1787 an outbreak of Typhus seeing the first convict transportation to Australia as a method of depopulating the hulks and removing health risks to the city of Portsmouth.

Yew Tree Inn, Hayling Island: https: www.theyewtree.co.uk

A 10minute drive along the main Havant road off the island will take you past the Yew Tree Inn. A building is believed to have been on this site since 1100, the first recording of a public house being around 1850 with the current inn built in 1890. It has had a fascinating history including being a mortuary and is filled with unusual trinkets. Typical pub grub, busy with tourists on a sunny day.

The Royal Oak, Langstone village: https: www.greenekinginns.co.uk

Located in the high street of Langstone just north of Hayling bridge leaving the island, this charming pub overlooks Langstone harbour alongside the Langstone Mill and one of the most photographed pubs in England. A wade way referred to in the Domesday Book, almost, connects the village of Langstone to North Hayling. The pub is a fusion of 15th century cottages once a smugglers haunt of the famous Hawkhurst gang with the pub being immortalised by Mary Hopkins in the 1960's with the song "those were the days". The pub has original flagged stone floor and obvious why when you visit at high tide as the sea can lap into the pub when gales raise sea levels. A VERY busy pub great beer and a long wait for food. Book a table and enjoy the view!

Hare and Hounds, Stoughton: www.hareandhoundspub.co.uk

Set in the rolling South Downs an area of outstanding natural beauty in the classically picturesque village of Stoughton a 30minute drive from HISC. A stunning flint stone building of the 19Century retaining an unspoilt feel with very good food, beer and fine wine list. Local walks provide stunning views from the south downs. Book a table.
